Dear Maya Ma'am,

I'm sorry I didn't get back to you sooner, I haven't had internet connection over the last few of days and wasn't aware of your response. I've tried to put down some simple pointers that you could share with the students, based on my own limited experience in the field and from questions that I've been asked before. Here they are!

My contact details: Please feel free to contact me. I am currently on field and will be for the next five months. Although my phone network and internet will be sketchy, I'll surely check my email once in a while when I do get internet and will try to respond asap.

Ph: 9480529397/9833126431

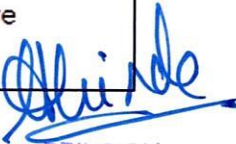

Email: ishikar@ncbs.res.in/ishikaramakrishna@gmail.com

Peace of mind, gratification and satisfaction v/s luxury and financial stability:

The field of wildlife biology and/or conservation is rewarding in the experiences it allows you to have, exposing you to a wide range of habitats and environments that a lay person or tourist would seldom get the chance to visit. It keeps your mind sharp and you physically fit (provided you are someone who enjoys and pursues field work). But very few are lucky enough to have the luxury of disposable income. This being said, there is more money to be earned in this field today than there was even three years ago. NGOs are getting better at writing proposals for grants, contract-based positions for research assistants/affiliates are available and a handful of well-paying jobs like those of naturalists, guides or consultants are also attainable. If you're academically inclined, there are no limits to the number of organisations you could form affiliations with or independent research projects that you could pursue – and you're likely to receive stipends/scholarships/grants for the same.

Schedule, Resource Persons Details and Feedback for 'The Next Step'

Welcome to THE NEXT STEP a symposium organized by the Psychology Department of St. Xavier's College, Autonomous, Mumbai, on Monday 12th February 2018, in the SCAVL.

The objective of this event is to give our current students a glimpse of the PG courses and potential career paths they can choose from after graduating with Psychology. The resource persons (many of whom are alumni of the department) from diverse fields, with varied experience, have been invited to throw light on the kind of course work, evaluate the course with respect to the pluses and minuses and share some personal insights from their journey towards a career path. Those who have had a lot of professional experience will speak about the profession/career rather than a course. Due to the range of areas we wish to touch upon, each of our speakers will get a maximum of 10 minutes (followed by 5 minutes of audience interaction).

We hope that this experience will help each of you, to make a more informed choice regarding your Next Step from St. Xavier's College.

The list of speakers and the areas they will touch upon are as follows:

TIME SLOT	RESOURCE PERSON	COURSE/AREA OF WORK
2-3pm	Sandhavi Venkatesh	From Christ college, Bangalore to Lecturer at MNWCParla "Still figuring it out...."

	Sonal Elvis D'Silva	Music and Sound

The feedback form is to be detached and submitted our TA Priya Baid and the letter of participation / presentation can be collected from her as well. Thank you.

FEEDBACK FORM

Please rate your experience on each of the following three areas on the given 4 point rating scale (place a tick mark in any one of the four slots within each row)

		Below average	Average	Good	Very good
1	The effectiveness of the symposium in meeting stated objectives
2	The logistical arrangements (venue, refreshments, registration, participation letters given)
3	Usefulness for you in your career related, decision making process

Report of Career Guidance Seminar by Department of History

The Department of History of St. Xavier's College under the guidance of Prof Avkash Jadhav held a career guidance seminar on conventional and unconventional career opportunities in History on 23rd February 2018.

The speakers were Mr. Navin Jambhulkar (I.P.O.S) on preparation for the Civil services and other competitive examinations, Prof. Elvina Pereira of St. Xavier's Teacher's Training College on career options in academics, Mr. Chaitanya Marpakwar from Mumbai Mirror on career options in Journalism, Mr. Prasanna from Chatrapati Shivaji Maharaj Vastu Sangrahalaya (CSMVS) gave insights on careers in museology, Ms. Deepti Anand from the startup Past and Perfect on the career options in the documentation and archives, Ms. Vrunda Pathare from Godrej Archives on taking up archival science as a career option, Ms. Khushboo Shaikh from Max Mueller Institute of Foreign Languages and she spoke on career options in foreign languages.

The seminar covered the fields of upcoming trends of Archival Science, the process of primary data and documentation, business history, oral history, civil services, Museology, journalism, academics, careers in foreign languages, etc.

The objective of having such a seminar was to expose students to the new opportunities available with history as a subject; the students are also encouraged to take up internships during their vacation, so as to give them first-hand experience while they are still pursuing their studies. It has certainly added a practical approach to studying history.

I was equally happy to meet some of my old friends and also proud to see some of my students doing so well in their life and career. I wish them all great success.

Report of Career Guidance Seminar - Department of Microbiology

"Choose a job you love, and you will never have to work a day in your life"

Mumbai, April 21, 2018:

Every student faces the question of 'what next' after graduation and post-graduation studies. It is at this point that career guide steps in and helps the child sail through these turbulent times. Human capacities are infinite and can never be measured, nor can one judge what the other person can do. Every person has unique characteristics and has their own strengths and weaknesses. The key was to identify these unique qualities through career guidance.

Career building is a continuous process and everyone is worried about their career, especially in the initial stage. In this day and age where there are so many career options young students find it very difficult to choose the right career option and at times prefer the safer option to their personal interest. Taking all these issues into account a career guidance seminar was organized by the Microbiology department of St. Xavier's College, Mumbai for the graduates and post graduates in Microbiology and Biotechnology, who wish to step out and build a bright future. Three speakers were invited from different career backgrounds to speak on all important topics related to career choices and guide all the participants towards a stable and right career choice.

The seminar started with the first speaker: Mr. Mahesh Jagtap (alumnus of the college) who went back to his experiences of school and college days and shared his personal story about his career. He right now works in sales and marketing company. The company in which he is involved is Pharma Quality Europe (PQE), widened worldwide. He gave a glimpse of all the possible career options available for a microbiologist and a biotechnologist not only in his company but also in others such as Bioprocess engineering, Patent lawyer, Brewery microbiologist, Biostatistician, Veterinary virologist, Genetic counselor, etc. He was a very confident and motivational speaker excelling in his field and encouraging students to take up different career opportunities.

The second speaker was Mrs. Shilpa Verekar, head of the MicroChem Silliker Pvt. Ltd., Located at Navi Mumbai. She has been awarded for woman of excellence. Her talk was basically about the various roles a microbiologist can play in Food industry. She explained various zones in a food industry which needs to be regulated. The concepts of challenge studies, shelf life studies and audits were well explained. Her talk basically showed the importance of role of food microbiologist play in the food industry in maintaining Good manufacturing practices and also in keeping quality of the products,

The third speaker was also an alumnus: Ms. Harsha Kavale, Head of Microbiologist, Cipla-leading pharmaceutical company in India. She also went back to the start of her career. She emphasized on various roles a microbiologist play in pharmaceutical industry. She talked about Quality control and Quality assurance department. Production manager, medicine representative, etc. She also gave a glimpse on all the career opportunities in Pharma Company.

All the three speakers were from totally different background explaining students how important a scientific student can be in the world. On an ending note, this was one of the well appreciated seminars, thanks to the Microbiology department! The students were able to figure out the direction they want to lead!

*"Opportunities doesn't happen,
